

Discriminant Function

a function used in classification task to partition the feature space based on probabilities, which helps in determining the class to which an observation should be assigned.